In conference with the appropriate faculty member, the Honors College student will draw up a course of study or research project description that will merit and justify Honors College credit. When the work is agreed upon, a signed copy of the contract must be forwarded to the Honors College office. This should be done within the first two weeks of the semester. Honors Contracts could encompass work that falls outside current academic offerings, or serve as an augmentation or enrichment of existing courses. Honors contracts could include an individual research project or assisting with faculty research, the completion of a group project with other Honors students, producing a research paper or creative work, the design and testing of a lab project, and more. Upon completion of the contract, the student and faculty member must again sign off to certify satisfactory completion of the contract and this signed completion must be sent to the Honors College office. Honors credit will not be given on the transcript until this form is received in the Honors College Office.

This contract binds the professor and student during the academic semester indicated above. The contract should state the objectives, expectations, modes of performance, required reading and experiments. Established University guidelines, with respect to "incomplete" work and grades, apply to these contracts.
